(amend/adjust as required)

Dear X

I am writing to you about the proposed amendment of the Aarhus Regulation and its importance in creating meaningful access to justice and environmental accountability for EU institutions and bodies.

The Aarhus Regulation is a law that is supposed to allow NGOs the right to have access to justice in order to challenge decisions and acts of EU institutions or bodies before the EU Courts where they contravene environmental law. Unfortunately, it doesn't work as it should.

The problems with the Regulation and current proposals mean that there is insufficient oversight of decisions and acts at EU level (e.g. the power of the EU Commission to decide on pesticide authorisations for the EU, or to designate Projects of Common Interest, or to propose frameworks in a variety of areas). NGOs have made proposals to remedy these defects. For more information see this EJNI Briefing.

Individuals and NGOs should be allowed to access to justice to review the full remit of EU institutional acts, including State Aid decisions, where those acts breach environmental law. Otherwise the EU will remain in breach of international law (The Aarhus Convention). To this end, decision makers should support NGO ClientEarth & others proposals which seek to bring the EU into compliance with the Aarhus Convention. For more information see this EJNI Briefing.

I hope that you will support the NGO proposals to introduce individual rights, removal the restrictive phrasing and inclusion of restrictive phrasing in the Aarhus Regulation amendment so the EU can ensure EU-level access to justice and compliance with the Aarhus Convention is delivered.

Yours Faithfully,
